Conference on the Future of Europe

What is the Conference on the Future of Europe?

The Conference on the Future of Europe is a unique and timely opportunity for European citizens to debate on Europe's challenges and priorities. No matter where you are from or what you do, this is the place to think about what future you want for the European Union and to make your contribution to help shape it.

The European Parliament, the Council and the European Commission have committed to listen to Europeans and to follow up, within their sphere of competences, on the recommendations made.

By spring 2022, the Conference is expected to reach conclusions and provide guidance on the future of Europe.

Who can take part?

European citizens, from all walks of life and corners of the Union, with young people playing a central role in shaping the future of the European project.

European, national, regional and local authorities, as well as civil society and other organisations who want to organise events and contribute ideas.

All participants shall respect the values established in our Charter for the Conference.

Which are the components of the Conference?

Multilingual digital platform - will be the place for citizens to share ideas and send online submissions. They will be collected, analysed and published throughout the Conference;

Decentralised events - Online, in-person¹ and hybrid events held by people and organisations as well as national, regional and local authorities across Europe;

European citizens' panels - will discuss different topics, based on the input provided by citizens through the digital platform. These panels will be representative in terms of geographic origin, gender, age, socioeconomic background and/or level of education;

Conference Plenaries - will ensure that the recommendations from the national and European citizens' panels, grouped by themes, are debated without a predetermined outcome and without limiting the scope to pre-defined policy areas.

The Conference Plenary will be composed of representatives from the European Parliament, the Council and the European Commission, as well as representatives from all national Parliaments, on an equal footing and citizens.

The Committee of the Regions and the Economic and Social Committee, the social partners, and civil society will also be represented.

The High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy will be associated when the international role of the EU is discussed.

The Executive Board will draw and publish the conclusions of the Conference Plenary.

What is the role of this digital platform?

The digital platform is the hub of the Conference: it is your way to get involved and speak up at the Conference. Here you can share your thoughts on Europe and the changes which need to happen, see what others have to say, find events near you, organise your own event and follow the progress and the outcome of the Conference.

How do you have your say?

Simply choose from the comprehensive range of topics or a topic that matters to you and let the Conference know your opinion. Your ideas will be collected, analysed and published on the platform, throughout the Conference.

This will then feed into the discussions taking place in the European citizens' panels and the Plenaries. A feedback mechanism will ensure that the ideas expressed during the Conference events result in concrete recommendations for EU action.

The final outcomes of the Conference will be presented in a report to the Presidents of the European Parliament, Council and Commission. The three institutions will examine swiftly how to follow up effectively to this report, each within their own sphere of competences and in accordance with the Treaties.
